Outside Organisation—London, England

Dan Gaillard

"I interned as an assistant to the music publicists, for the PR firm, Outside Organisation. I often worked with Public Relations software to research media outlets and help update contact books. I also created several coverage reports for the publicists to use to update clients on how much online media coverage they were receiving, made calls to media, helped set up meetings, and worked at the reception desk. The highlight of the internship was working backstage at the O2 Arena for the Country 2 Country Music Festival where I helped set up the media room, operated the accreditation desk, and guided media members during the show."

Umi Digital—London, England

Brittany Grage

"Quickly integrated into the marketing team at Umi Digital, I managed Facebook and Twitter accounts for three hotels within London as well as hotels in Barcelona, Amsterdam and Maastricht. I also wrote articles for the blog, researched and put together marketing plans. The experience was amazing and the people were great. I learned so much and was given such great responsibility from day one. By immersing myself into this new atmosphere, I not only increased my skills professionally, but my confidence grew as well."

ARCA Consortium—Madrid, Spain

Sandra Petri

"During my time in Madrid, I worked in the international consulting department for ARCA Consortium, a company that employ both lawyers and consultants. I researched potential projects, translated documents from Spanish to English, and worked on other tasks as needed. The conversations in the office taught me so much about the language and gave me a way to interact with older Madrileños. Working abroad was challenging but also very rewarding. From day one everyone was incredibly nice. I learned a lot about the differences between our work cultures. In Spain, even if you're meeting for the first time, you're exchanging kisses on the cheeks and jumping right into conversations, typically bypassing the small talk that's common in the United States."
